CRAIG'S VIEW OF THE ONLY SOLUTION

"THE ONLY WAY OUT"

BELFAST, Nov. 30.—Sir James Craig told Mr. Lloyd George early in the Irish peace negotiations that if the Ulster Parliament or people even entertained the British proposals, he would resign as Premier of Ulster. This was disclosed by Sir James yesterday in the Ulster Parliament. An All-Ireland Parliament which was the basis of the British offer was not to be thought of "under present conditions," he said, but the Ulster Government was prepared to discuss other avenues for settlement. Sir James reiterated that Ulster wanted a settlement and said "if there is any prospect of Sinn Fein showing sense we will renew the offer that, through the machinery of the Council of Ireland, we are prepared to meet them and discuss those matters so vital in the interest and prosperity of our Province. We are also prepared to enter into competition to see whether the North or South can produce the better government." The only way her opponents can ever hope to secure Ulster was by winning her, "by starting out upon a path such as we in Ulster have taken, the result of which is happiness, peace and prosperity throughout the length and breadth of the land; by showing to all classes and creeds firm justice and up-right Government; by throwing aside all abominable machinery of crime and outrage and asking forgiveness for the dastardly deeds they have done in the past and which so recently stained the fair name of the city of Belfast. How can Ulster be asked to clasp hands with a people who, while pretending to come to settlement, are flinging their bombs and shooting from behind the chimney top of Belfast. It is preposterous."

ULSTER PREMIER

SIR JAMES CRAIG

Big Gathering At Port Union

Bonavista Bay Plumps For COAKER

PORT UNION, Dec. 1.—The largest gathering of delegates from Bonavista Bay which ever assembled at a Convention sat yesterday in Council Session and discussed District matters. A vigorous discussion concerning "Anglican's" letter in the "Telegram" occupied a couple of hours, resulting in a unanimous resolution condemning the writer, who is considered to be a clergyman, and pledging support to Coaker and Coakerism, and strongest opposition to Morine in the event of his appearing in Bonavista District seeking political support. These Resolutions will be published. Bonavista District Council, Trinity District Council are holding meetings today; 150 delegates arrived since Sunday, the largest attendance on record from Bonavista and Trinity districts. Fogo and Twillingate delegates are due by "Susie" and "Prospero". The Convention will open on the arrival of the Prospero. Splendid arches have been erected by people in honour of convention. Delegates have arrived representing from Burin to Bonavista, and several delegates from Conception Bay. A big parade accompanied by two bands will close the convention. The closing session will be addressed by Revs. C. Lench and Frank Boone.

Powers Will Have To Increase Ratio, Says Beatty

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Admiral Beatty sailed for home to-day with Lady Beatty on the steamer Adriatic. Replying to a question as to what action he thought would be likely if Japan should insist on increasing its navy ratio in the limitation program, the Admiral said the other Powers would have to do the same thing. The five-five-three proposal has been accepted by the British Government and its experts in Washington are satisfactory in every way, he added.

British Considering a Moratorium for Germany

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Reports that the British Government was considering the proposed Moratorium for Germany were confirmed in official circles today. The point being discussed is under what conditions the Moratorium could be declared. It was made known this afternoon that the interview which Dr. Walter Rathenau, former German Minister of Reconstruction, had with Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, yesterday, was for the discussion, among other things of the Moratorium question.

France's Proposal Re-Reparations

SINN FEIN WILL NOT TAKE LOYAL OATH

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Government circles to-day expressed the belief that the Irish Conference would break down almost immediately as a result of difficulties which have arisen and that a resumption of armed hostilities could not be postponed. The alternative settlement plan submitted by the Government to Sinn Fein representatives last evening included the necessity for a definite undertaking by Sinn Fein to take the oath of allegiance to the Crown. Sinn Fein has many objections to the Government's new plan, but even if it agreed to discuss this plan it will not give its assent to the oath of allegiance proviso, it is stated. There has been a hope of prolonging the truce and adjourning the negotiations for an additional period of two months, but this hope has now receded.

The Irish Solution

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The refusal of Ulster to enter an All-Ireland Parliament "under present conditions" voiced in Belfast yesterday by Premier Craig, is not considered here as closing the door to settlement on the basis of the semi-official plan advanced yesterday. Under this plan the terms offered Ireland would be drafted in treaty form and submitted to the House of Commons. The treaty would embody provision for an All-Ireland Parliament, but would give Northeastern Ulster, as defined by a boundary commission, permission to declare itself out either at once or after a limited period. It is believed that Ulster, however, would balk at the intended reconstruction of her boundary, although no lessening of the total area now under the control of the Ulster Parliament is foreseen here. It was pointed out that the amputation from Ulster of the Catholic districts might be balanced by the acquisition of Protestant districts now assigned to Southern Ireland.

CHAPTER XXV.

The New Earl.

"The story, papa?" she said, and her voice was as steady as her gaze. "Yes," he said, impatiently, as if to speak of anything connected with so inferior a person as a servant annoyed him. "I have heard, from my valet, some rumor that the girl has run away. It is not true, I suppose?"

Norah hesitated for a moment, but a moment only. "Yes, it is true," she said, and she touched the keys softly, to conceal the tremor that shook her hand.

The earl raised his brows with marked displeasure.

"Run away from the Court!" he said, as if such a proceeding were as incredible as running away from Paradise. "Why has she done so? With whom has she run away, pray?"

"She is Mrs. Harman's niece," said Norah slowly, and still playing softly. "and Harman is trying to keep it secret. She ran away with—Mr. Cyril Burne."

The earl almost started, and his incipient frown gave place to an expression of satisfaction.

"In-deed!" he said, in a tone of haughty contempt. "It would be scarcely correct to say that it is no more than I expected, as my acquaintance with the gentleman was so slight; but, from what I have heard of him, I am not surprised. I trust that it will be a warning to you not to credit every stranger you may happen to meet with all the virtues."

Norah bent her head in silence. She felt that she deserved all that he could say, and yet the cold words fell upon her heart like ice. By an effort she raised her eyes.

"The truth is not known, papa," she said, in a low voice. "It is Harman's secret—"

"She need have no fear of my communicating it," he said, haughtily. "The girl has left my roof of her own free will, and there is an end of it—and her!"

Norah drew a breath of relief, and he moved toward the door with his slow and stately step; but he came back and stood looking down at her.

"Are you unwell?" he asked. Norah shook her head.

"I am a little tired this morning, papa," she replied.

"You look pale," he said slowly, as if he were reluctantly telling her of a fault. "Would you like to see a medical man?"

Norah shook her head again, and a faint smile that was more sad than tears crossed her face. No doctor could give her back the Cyril she had loved and lost!

"You have not looked well for some time past," he said. "Perhaps you need a change of air."

"I don't know," said Norah, listlessly.

"I am going up to town in a few days," he went on. "I had thought of staying at an hotel, but if you would like to accompany me, I will write and tell them to have the small house in Park Lane ready. There are not many people in town just now, but the change may benefit you. Do you care to go?"

Norah looked through the window undecidedly. Perhaps she would learn to forget Cyril more easily and quickly away from Sandleigh.

"Thank you, papa," she replied. "Yes, I will like to go."

"Very well," he said. "I will make the necessary arrangements. You will take Harman with you, and the housekeeper can send some of the servants up at once," and he left the room.

The day passed slowly, draggingly. Norah tried to read, to work, but the book dropped into her lap, and she found herself dwelling upon her trouble, and going over all its details one by one with vivid distinctness. She dressed herself for dinner, Harman being too ill to wait upon her, and went down with the listless step, to find Guildford Berton in the drawing room.

His presence was a very unwelcome one to her, and her face flushed as he came up to her, and, under his breath, said:

"I have wired to my man in London; please do not be anxious."

Before she could respond the earl entered.

"Ah, Guildford," he said, "I am glad you dine with us this evening. I was going to ask you to come over. We are going to town for a week or two. Lady Norah has not been looking well for some little time past, and needs change of air."

"Yes?" he said, in his quiet voice. "I trust the change may do her good." They went into the dining room, and the earl, as he ladled out the soup, said:

"There were one or two things I should be glad if you will see to, Guildford," and he mentioned several matters connected with the estate.

"Certainly," said Guildford Berton, "I quite understand. Don't let anything worry you while you are away; I will see to everything so far as I can."

"You know more about the estate than I do, I really think," remarked the earl, graciously. "I am sure I do not know what we should do without you. We go to the house in Park Lane."

"Yes?" he said. "I will write and tell the people in charge."

"Oh, thank you," said the earl. "I had intended doing so, but if you will be so kind."

"Certainly," assented Guildford Berton, as if it were a matter of course. "Lady Norah will have the room overlooking the park? And as to horses and so on, I suppose you will hire? I will write to Selby's. Lady Norah will want a brougham for herself," he added, thoughtfully.

"Order what you think necessary," said the earl, indifferently.

Norah sat and listened in silence. She was beginning to understand how Guildford Berton had rendered himself indispensable to her father.

"By the way," said the earl, after a pause, "you would be all the better for a change yourself, Guildford." Guildford Berton raised his glass. "Oh, I am all right—quite well," he said.

"You scarcely look so," returned the earl. "You are thinner than you were, and paler."

Guildford Berton glanced out of the corner of his eyes at Norah, and forced a smile upon his face, which he knew looked haggard in the light thrown by the shaded lamp.

"Do I?" he said carelessly.

"When I say a change, I don't wish to infer that Sandleigh is unhealthy. I consider it one of the most salubrious places in England," remarked the earl, stiffly. "But change of scene is sometimes of advantage. We could find room for you at Park Lane if you care to come."

The color rose to Guildford Berton's haggard face. To be in the same house with Norah, to go about London with her, to have her to himself for some weeks, just when her heart was sore with the supposed desertion of Cyril Burne! What a chance for him!

"Thank you, you are very kind," he said, carefully suppressing the secret joy which possessed him. "I should be glad to run up for a few days, but a little later on. These matters you have mentioned must be seen to, and at once."

"You are always thoughtful and considerate, Guildford. Come up to up, by all means, and as soon as you can."

Norah did not indorse the invitation, but sat, her eyes bent upon the plate. She spoke little during the meal, and rose with a feeling of relief when the butler brought in the port.

Guildford Berton sipped his wine and talked, doing his best to amuse the earl, and it was not until they had got up to join Norah in the drawing room that he said, quite carelessly:

"Oh, about letters. You will have them forwarded, I suppose?" and he kept his eyes down, as he waited breathlessly for the reply which would mean so much to him.

"Yes, I suppose so," answered the

"Thank you," responded the earl, with a bow; "that will save me a great deal of trouble. Pray do so."

He went into the library and sat down to one of the writing tables, but as he laid the sheet of note paper, with its gold embazoned crest, before him and took up a pen, a sudden suspicion that he was not alone came over him. He glanced over his shoulder cautiously, and with a haggard smile, for he knew that the suspicion was a mere fancy; but he looked round nevertheless, and it seemed to him that a shade, a formless shape, was hovering cloud-like at the end of the room. He got up, and as he approached, the shape appeared to grow less distinct and vanish; but at one moment it had, to his mind, taken the form of Becca, and its face wore the expression of horror which had appeared on hers when she turned and saw him approaching her with the handkerchief tied over his mouth.

"MY LITTLE GIRL HAS GAINED 15 POUNDS," SAYS HAPPY MOTHER

Little Rhode Island Girl Is As Bright and Cheery and Her Cheeks are As Rosy As Ever.

SHE CAN NOW KEEP UP IN HER CLASSES

"Only a Mother Can Understand What I Suffered When I Saw My Daughter Slowly Wasting Away," Says Mrs. Mary Smith.

"Every time I look at my little girl's rosy cheeks my heart goes out in praise and gratitude to Tanlac," said Mrs. Mary Smith, of Peacedale, R.I., a suburb of Providence, recently.

"Until Mary was eleven years of age she always enjoyed good health and had a very happy, fun-loving disposition. However, during the past three years she became very thin and frail. She took on a very sallow color, her tongue coated over, she complained of a bad taste in her mouth, dull headaches, and of feeling languid and tired all the time. She lost her sunny disposition and became nervous, irritable and moody. Her appetite got so poor that I had to coax her to eat. Her sleep was fitful, her eyes dull, and her steps so heavy that it seemed she hadn't strength to lift her feet from the floor.

"She had always stood high in her studies, but now her reports were so bad that her teacher called on me to find out why she had gone back so in her lessons. When I asked her why she had failed so in her school work she cried and said she studied as hard as ever, but couldn't seem to remember. Only a mother can understand what I suffered when I saw my daughter slowly, but surely, fading away each day. I could hardly keep back the tears when I looked at her.

"Six months ago we took her out of school, thinking this might help her, but she continued to grow worse. We were told she would get better when she got older, but I was afraid she couldn't live and have shed many a tear over her condition. In fact, my husband and myself, both, were downright sick from worry over her, and yet, nothing did her any good.

"One day my husband said, 'Why not have Mary try Tanlac?' Each morning I have read in the papers of someone being helped by it and it may be what she needs."

"Well, I had tried everything else, so as a last resort I had Mary try Tanlac and I have felt thankful a thousand times that I did. Before she finished the first bottle she was eating like I have been wanting to see her eat for three years. Now she is the first to the table and the last to leave. She has gained fifteen pounds and is still gaining, and her face is as round and rosy as it ever was. Her eyes sparkle with health, her steps are light, and she is as full of life as a kitten. It does my heart good to hear her running around, singing and laughing and enjoying life and good health again. My gratitude to Tanlac is unbounded."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Chance Cove Suffers Storm

Editor Evening Advocate.

Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in your valuable paper to make a few remarks concerning the property that was destroyed at Chance Cove by the heavy sea and wind. It cleaned the harbour on both sides, stores were lost, stages, flakes and small boats, roads and bridges. It was a wonderful loss to the poor people. It took away a big bridge two hundred feet long, with three wharves under it and about half a mile of the government road, including both sides of the harbour. Some men lost fish and herding that were in their stages when the storm came. The sea was raging for four days—the like was never known here before. Motor boats also were destroyed.

It will be some time before things are built up again. Bridges were washed away ten feet high from the bank. The people have to climb along by the shore to get from one side to the other. The loss was about $3,000. Wishing the Advocate and Mr. Conker every success and much prosperity.

Yours truly,
THOS. PEDDLE.

Annual Poultry Exhibition Opened At C.L.B. Armoury

Opening Address By His Excellency The Governor

Exhibits Best On Record

The Newfoundland Poultry Association began its 9th annual exhibition at the C.L.B. Armoury, Harvey Road, last evening. The show was formally opened by His Excellency who, on his arrival at the exhibition building, attended by his suite, was met by President H. W. LeMessurier, C.M.G., Vice-President John Calver, Secretary Stan White and other officers of the Poultry Association. Although the weather conditions were such as to offer little encouragement to people to venture forth, the attendance at the Armoury at the hour of opening was exceptionally large and representative and the promoters must have felt that their efforts to promote this valuable industry are indeed appreciated.

On the platform were Sir R. A. Squires, Hon. Dr. Campbell, Minister of Agriculture; Mayor Morris, Mr. Frank E. Jackson, Judge for the Exhibition; Mr. J. B. Gilliat, President Bell Island Poultry Association; Mr. Walter Reid, Assistant Judge, and Mr. J. F. Calver.

The number of birds in the exhibition is about 700, as compared with 600 last year, with 56 exhibitors against 42 last year. Following a brief address President LeMessurier requested His Excellency to formally declare it open which the Governor did in a humorous speech. Amongst the new exhibitors this year are Mr. Herbert Winter, who has secured 4 prizes for White Plymouth Rocks, Mr. E. A. Bowring, who has secured a prize for White Orpingtons. Dr. Carnochan of the Bell Island Poultry Association has a fine number of White Plymouth Rocks and has secured the majority of prizes in this class which entitles him to a silver cup. Mr. W. K. Chancey of Grand Falls was also present at the show and won three silver cups, one for the greatest number of prizes for Barr'd Plymouth Rocks, and a silver cup from the Newfoundland Poultry Association for the largest number of birds—Barr'd Plymouth Rocks—of which there are about 130 entries. The third cup is for the outport exhibitor winning the largest number of prizes at the exhibition. The Rhode Island Red prize was won by Mr. Stephen Emberley of the Ordnance Poultry Yards. The White Leghorn Cup has been won for the third time by Mr. G. R. Williams, who has won, in an entry of 71 birds, every prize for White Leghorns except a fourth prize. He now becomes the owner of the cup presented by Mr. Percie Johnson for this class.

The flower exhibition is in the C.L.B. Gynasium upstairs which has been heated for the purpose. The flowers were judged by Mr. Otto Rusch who was appointed by the florists themselves. The awards are as follows:

For Table of Chrysanthemums in Vases—1st, H. D. Reid and Valley Nurseries, Ltd.; 2nd, R. G. Reid.

For the Best Table of Pot Blooms—1st, R. G. Reid; 2nd, H. D. Reid; 3rd, Valley Nurseries, Ltd.

For the Best Vase Containing Cut Blooms—1st, Valley Nurseries; 2nd, H. D. Reid; 3rd, R. G. Reid.

For the Best Foliage Plants Submitted by Housekeepers—1st, Mrs. Allan G. Cake; 2nd, Mrs. Cantwell, Parade Street.

For the Best Flowering Plant—Mrs. John King, Clam Bank Farm.

For the Best Bouquet Cut Blooms—1st, Valley Nurseries, Ltd.; 2nd, R. G. Reid; 3rd, H. D. Reid.

This exhibition of flowers is the finest ever seen in Newfoundland. The chrysanthemums are fully six inches across the top. The exhibition was highly commended by His Excellency, who is an expert in the raising of chrysanthemums and he fully concurred with the judgment of Mr. Rusch.

The vegetable prizes were not awarded up to a late hour last night. The model poultry house, which is lighted by electricity, has a complete supply of poultry appliances with a pen of pure bred White Leghorns, some of which are laying; also an exhibit of pet rabbits. The children of the various orphanages have been invited to attend the exhibition to-day and tomorrow as guests of the Association which is offering a prize for the best essay from the schoolboys and girls under 15 on "What I saw and learned at the Nrd. Poultry Show."

Judge Jackson, who is judging the exhibits, is the Collector of Customs at North Sydney, and as he is anxious to get home, leaves by the express to-day. It was hoped that he would be able to stay for a banquet in his honor, but business being insistent, this was found impracticable.

Included in the prizes this year are 15 silver cups with many special prizes and the usual number of cash prizes and ribbons. The exhibition will continue open to-day and to-morrow at day and will close on Friday night, when the prizes will be awarded the A full list of the prize winners will, lucky winners by H. E. the Governor, appear in Saturday's Advocate.

ST. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD

The seventh annual meeting of St. Andrew's Brotherhood, St. Thomas's Chapter, was held in the chapel on Monday evening under the chairmanship of the Rector, Rev. E. C. Harp. In a short inspirational address, the chairman alluded to the aims and accomplishments of the Chapter since its inception, and paid a glowing tribute to the energy and interest of the retiring Director, Mr. James Billard. The fitting of the St. Andrew's Chapel in the basement of this old church, is a monument to the unselfish devotion and pluck of the small band of christian workers which comprise the Brotherhood.

Report of the year's work was read and showed the Chapter to be in a satisfactory condition, after which the new officers were elected as follows: Director, Mr. H. J. Burnell; Vice-Director, Mr. James Billard; Secty-Treas., Mr. Wm. J. Frampton.

OBITUARY

DINAH CLARKE

Editor Evening Advocate.

Dear Editor—Please permit me space in your much read paper, the Advocate to record the death of our dear friend Dinah Clark, who was taken from our midst on Oct. 20th just in the bloom of life. She was troubled with that dread disease typhoid fever. In all her suffering she was never heard to murmur or complain. Every means was tried for her recovery, but God thought best to take her. She will be greatly missed by all who knew her. We can rest assured that she is resting in Jesus, which is far better. She was laid to rest on Oct. 22nd. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. E. Mercer, who took his text from Genesis, 27 chap. and 2nd verse. We deeply mourn her loss and extend sincere sympathy to the bereaved family. She leaves to mourn her, a husband, two daughters, and four sons, a mother, two brothers, one residing at Botwood, the other at New York. May God comfort the bereaved family. Darling sister you have left us. You are taken from our home. You are gone to be with Jesus where death can never come. Little Burnt, Nov. 8th, 1921.

No Appetite

Nervous exhaustion leads to distaste for food. The nerves of the stomach are weak, digestion fails and you become generally upset and out of sorts.

The secret of complete restoration is in getting the nervous system fully built up.

Mrs. R. Cheney, 208 Richmond St., Chatham, Ont., writes:

"I was troubled with indigestion, which caused me many sleepless nights. I would be in terrible distress at times, and would get no relief for two or three hours. For sixteen months I ate nothing but Shredded Wheat biscuits, as I dare not eat anything else. I did not know what to do, as I had tried so many different remedies, as well as doctors' medicines, without gaining permanent relief. Finally I got some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and while on the second box noticed that I was improving. I continued the treatment until I am now fully restored, and have returned to my regular diet. My husband has also taken Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with splendid results, so we are glad to recommend it to others."

Queen Alexandra's Birthday

Flags are flying on the public buildings today in honour of the Birthday of Queen Alexandra, mother of our Sovereign Lord and King, George V., and wife of Edward VII. of honoured and gracious memory.

Queen Alexandra was born on December 1st, 1844, and has therefore reached the ripe old age of 77, and loyal subjects everywhere will pray that she may live many years in her adopted country, where she has been one of the best beloved of Royalty ever since Edward, the Prince of Wales, brought her, a Sea-King's daughter, over the seas as his young bride.

THE IRISH NEGOTIATIONS

If it be darkest before the dawn, then surely the dawn of Peace in Ireland cannot be far off. The messages to-day have culminated in the statement of the situation which has just reached us by cable and which we give herewith:

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The spectre of renewed bloodshed in Ireland stares British Isles in the face in consequence of virtual collapse of peace negotiations which have proceeded under a truce for the last five months. Sinn Fein has stood firm on its demand for an all Ireland parliament as the basis of settlement, at the same time refusing to concede allegiance to the British Crown. Ulster has refused point blank to scrap her own parliament to enter an all-Ireland Legislature, "under present conditions" on the ground that she would thereby come directly under control of the numerically superior South. The latest plan, that for an all-Ireland parliament under which Ulster could retain her existing rights until or unless she changed her mind, has fallen to the ground under a formal statement by Sinn Fein delegation here that it cannot be considered. As a result, in both Government and Irish circles the opinion is expressed that nothing short of a miracle can avert the complete collapse of negotiations and resumption of warfare in Ireland. Sinn Feiners have expressed the view that there could be no formal denunciation of truce by either side and this leads to the belief that any spark of combat set off in Ireland with the peace movement apparently deadlocked might start the conflagration anew. Recent outbreaks, it is pointed out, have been passed over merely because hope was still held out for an understanding.

PRINCESS MARY TO WED

The engagement of Princess Mary, only daughter of the King and Queen to Viscount Lascelles was announced in London. Viscount Lascelles is well known in Canada having served here as an A.D.C.

LONDON WELCOMES ROYAL BETROTHAL WITH AFFECTION

LONDON, November 23.—All England today hailed Princess Mary and her "commoner" fiancé, the Viscount Lascelles, son of the Earl of Harewood. Their engagement was announced last night, in a statement issued at Buckingham Palace by the King and Queen. The fact that the title of Viscount is a "courtly" title, and that the prospective bridegroom is really an ordinary commoner, seemed to please the newspapers and the public alike.

"I am a very happy and a 'lucky man,'" Lascelles told his friends who showered him with congratulations.

The news of the engagement displaced the Disarmament Conference from its point of vantage in the press. Columns of news articles, tracing the Viscount's lineage down through seven centuries of English history, were printed alongside eulogies of the beloved Princess.

The announcement of the betrothal threw London into a hysteria of pleasant excitement. The theatre managements had been notified and when they gave the news to their patrons the houses gave the Princess a great ovation.

The Viscount is 39, while Princess Mary is 24. Her Royal Highness has always been popular with the British public. She is fond of home life and a "qualified cook." She can mend and is proud of it. She frequently bakes cakes, and was an enthusiastic war worker and a competent nurse. She has been leader of the great girl scouts movement and is known as a horse woman.

Although no definite time has been set for the wedding, it is expected to take place around Christmas. No long engagement is looked for.

The romance is understood to have reached the proposal stage last September, when Lord Lascelles was a guest at Sandringham. He is a great sportsman and a lover of horses. Frequently he went riding with the Princess.

Lord Lascelles is known as a diplomat, politician, soldier and sportsman. The first important step in his career was taken as an attaché of the British legation in Rome, but it was really his distinguished service throughout the war that led him to popular favor. He led the attack of his battalions at Maubeuge. Afterwards he unsuccessfully sought election to the House of Commons.

INHERITED $2,500,000

He is very wealthy. In 1916 he unexpectedly inherited 2,500,000 pounds from a reclusive uncle, Clanrickarde, who was known as the "worst dressed peer in England." He was a picturesque old type, having a passionate fondness for paintings. Frequently, however, he hung the most beautiful paintings on barn doors. The old man owned 56,000 acres of land in Ireland, besides other properties. He willed the entire estate to Lord Lascelles, mentioning him in his will as "My great nephew Harry Lascelles, known as the Viscount Lascelles."

It is expected the Viscount will be given a peerage coincident with the marriage. The news of the engagement was cabled to the Prince of Wales in India, after the announcement had been made, following a meeting of the Privy Council at the Royal Palace. Lord Lascelles was dining at the palace at the time.

Royalty of Spain, Italy, Belgium, Norway, Sweden and Denmark are to be invited to the wedding of Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles, it was expected here to-day.

"I do not know when the wedding will take place," the Viscount said,

"but one thing is certain, that it will not occur for several months yet. This has been definitely settled."

The engagement ring is of a single square-cut emerald.

Viscount Lascelles has enjoyed the reputation of being the most eligible bachelor of London. He declined a staff appointment in the war, and preferred to remain in the trenches, where he was very popular. He is one of the keenest British sportsmen. He owns a string of race horses in training at Newmarket. He is an excellent sport. Viscount Lascelles is known as a man of the simplest tastes and his yearly requirements are stated to be extremely moderate.

The morning newspapers editorially express the utmost satisfaction at the betrothal of Princess Mary to an Englishman and equally approve her choice of a husband in the Viscount Lascelles. It is emphasized that there would have been general disappointment if she had married a member of foreign royalty, and thus have left England, where she is universally popular.

"Her choice," says one newspaper, "will suit the democratic and romantic instincts of the British people and modern views of monarchy in an age when the dynastic principle is under reconstruction. The betrothal of the Princess makes it easier to believe that the Prince of Wales in his turn will make a marriage which will appeal to the same romantic and democratic sentiments of the nation." This is typical of many of the comments.

Meantime expressions of gratification over the betrothal are coming from people in all parts of the Empire. Congratulatory messages were sent from every direction, bearing affectionate expressions of loyalty and good wishes from all ranks of the British community.

The Princess Mary is the only daughter of Their Majesties King George and Queen Mary, and was born April 25, 1897. Her full name is Victoria Alexandra Alice Mary. Princess Mary is Colonel in Chief of the Royal Scots and also President of the Girl Guides.

For many years past Princess Mary has been the constant companion of Queen Mary, and since she has grown up the two are together, almost all day long. The remarkable likeness between them seems likewise to be increasing, and there are both at Buckingham Palace and York Cottage photographs of the Queen as a young woman that would easily pass for her daughter to-day. She is extremely popular with all with whom she is brought in contact, and she has a smiling, winning way with her that greatly endears her to all about the Royal Household.

Years ago she gained the title of "the pet of the Royal Family," and as such she still remains. Simple and unaffected to a degree, a more charmingly typical English girl it would be impossible to find.

MEETING OF COUNCIL.

His Majesty, at a council meeting in Buckingham Palace yesterday, had previously announced that he had given consent to the marriage.

Prime Minister Lloyd George, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Viscount Birkenhead and the Cabinet Ministers were present at the Council meeting, after which Mr. Lloyd George had an audience with the King. Later Viscount Lascelles dined with the King and Queen and his fiancée.

The engagement of Princess Mary, which has been awaited by the British public, is another break in royal tradition which is likely to be extremely popular with the King's subjects.

There are precedents, however, for going outside royal houses for partners—for instance, the marriage of Queen Victoria's daughter, Louise, to the Marquis of Lorne, and the marriage of King Edward's daughter Louise, to the Earl of Fife.

COUNTRY HOUSE PARTIES.

It was after the armistice that meetings between the Viscount and the Princess became frequent at country house parties and at Sandringham, but during the period of growing attachment they could not recall the precise occasion of their first meeting.

It was in the woods of Sandringham that the Viscount made his declaration and was accepted by the Princess.

JOHN'S BRAIN-WAVE.

Miss Cross, the new governess, is coming to the conclusion that her pupil John ought to go to school. The other day she was giving John and his sisters a lesson the heart.

"What happens," she asked, "to the man who smokes too much tobacco? He develops a tobacco-heart. The man who rows too strongly develops a rowing heart."

Here John cut in.

"And I s'pose," he said, "the boy who eats too many sweets gets a—"

But Miss Cross was too quick for him, and her ruler playing a tattoo on his knuckles proved that the bad boy gets what he deserves.

TIRED OF HER JOB

First Woman Cabinet Minister in B. C. Resigns.

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 20.—Hon. Mrs. Ralph Smith, member without portfolio in the Oliver government, and the first woman cabinet member in the British empire, has resigned her office. In her letter of resignation, made public last night, Mrs. Smith said:

"I herewith tender my resignation as a member of the legislative council and minister without portfolio. For some time I have felt, as you know, that I should take this course, and I have been in the unfortunate position of having to assume the responsibility of acts of the government without being in a position to criticize or advise.

"As a member of the council have been precluded from criticism and that is perhaps not a good thing in one's constituency. Any other reasons I can give in due course.

"I am primarily interested in women and children and no matter what government has the power, as long as I can serve the people who I have the honor to represent, then I shall find the happiness that public life gives."

BRITISH NAVAL HERO
ARRIVES

Lord Beatty, hero of the North Sea, smilingly acknowledged the greetings of the crowds that lined his path from the Battery, N. Y. to the City Hall.

Italians Want Submarines

Rome Press Says Independence Depends on Cheaper Craft.

ROME, Nov. 19.—An argument for the submarine as a protection for Italy is printed by the Messaggero to-day in an editorial with reference to the British attitude at the Limitation for Armament Conference in Washington toward the undersea form of naval warfare.

"It can be understood why Great Britain should be averse to submarines," the Messaggero says, "but that is no reason why France and Italy should accept Mr. Balfour's limitations. We are unable to construct large ships, because we have not the financial means. There is nothing hostile in our policy to Great Britain, but our only hope of independence consists in owning many submarines. Let us remember that the Mediterranean is still a British lake, presenting a problem more important and more delicate for us than of the Pacific."

"Let us not forget that England possesses Gibraltar, Malta, Cyprus and Alexandria, holds the Suez Canal and Port Said and is preparing to dominate the Dardanelles. Only by possession of submarines will be able to hold the sea for any length of time."

"Mr. Balfour has stated that the existence of his empire is impossible without the safeguarding of its long lines of communication, but Italy, as are all the Mediterranean nations, is at the complete mercy of England, who is able to stifle them at will. Italy therefore cannot consent to any limitation on submarines unless she can obtain absolute guarantees."

The Tempo in its comment expresses the opinion that the study of naval bases will be necessary at the conference. "All of these," says the newspaper, "are under the control of England or America. It is impossible for Italy and France to accept England's superiority in the Mediterranean."

Wasteful Haste

Cleveland Plain Dealer: Wrecks along the highway mark the advent of slippery November wheeling. The best intentioned driver over wet asphalt is likely to find his direction suddenly reversed under caution sits beside in the machine. Now if ever the autoist must keep his head level and his speedometer cool, for pitfalls are many. It is a fortunate circumstance that auto owners no longer feel it necessary to put their cars in storage from first snow till frost leaves the ground in spring. It would be still more fortunate if every driver in slippery weather would temper his speed to the wet asphalt. Speed is the demon that does the damage. Haste never more obviously makes waste than when it is undertaken on rubber tires over a greasy pavement.

Millions For Zion

Boston Transcript: American Jewish sentiment, quite regardless of warnings of trouble at Jerusalem, stands pat on its determination to develop the Jewish homeland. At a plenary session in New York City on Sunday, the Keren Hayesod, of Palestine Foundation Committee, representing practically the whole Zionist sentiment of the country, not only pledged the Zionists of America to raise a fund of $9,000,000 by January 1, 1923, for the continued practical up-building of Zion, but endorsed as the basis of the effort the application of the ancient principle of the Jewish tithe, or fixed contribution of ten per cent. of income. This does not mean, naturally, that the "tithe" will be enforced, as it was in ancient Israel. The new tithe for Zion is a voluntary contribution. But inasmuch as it will probably be regarded, as was the ancient tithe, as a sacred levy, a "holy tenth," it will nevertheless, probably in millions of cases, be dutifully paid.

Hard Times Forcing Girls To Live Cheaper

Housing Association Advises Those Who Can to Return Home This Winter.

So acute are certain phases of the employment and housing situation here that young girls are being advised to return to their homes, where possible, rather than remain in New York, according to a statement issued yesterday by Miss Cornelia Marshall, President of the Association to Promote Proper Housing for Girls, which will hold a national conference at the Hotel Pennsylvania on Monday and Tuesday.

Unemployment and the present housing conditions as they affect girls will be the subjects considered at the conference. Among the speakers will be Senator Charles C. Lockwood, John Ihlder of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Samuel Untermyer and the Hon. Henry D. Sayer of the Industrial Commission of the Department of Labor of the State of New York.

Topics to be discussed are: "The Relation of Unemployment to the Housing Problem," "The Rent Problem and the Servant," "Co-operative Forms of Purchasing," "The Formation of Credit Unions" and "The Relation of Room Registries to Housing Standards."

Unemployment and lowered wages are forcing hundreds of girls and women into cheaper rooms. The old-time lodging house is coming into its own again, the association finds in its investigations. The $20 to $25 a week girl is getting scarcer. Professional women are finding that one room with kitchenette is the height to which their ambitions can soar. These one-room and kitchenette affairs are more and more in demand.

One of the most important features of the association's work is the Bureau of Boarding Houses for Girls. Facts concerning some of the conditions recently found by the bureau in the course of its work will be presented at the conference.

Club girls will tell the possibilities of club life versus the furnished room. The need of more clubs for girls may be estimated by the fact that there is a waiting list of sixty or more girls at all the clubs listed.

New Superdreadnought, Listed in Hughes Proposal, Is Now 65 per cent. Complete.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Nov. 19.—The superdreadnought West Virginia, newest addition to the American navy and scheduled to grace the scrap pile within a few months under the reduction program, was successfully launched to-day at the plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company. Miss Alice Mann of Bramwell, W. Va., named the ship as she glided from the ways.

If the American plan is agreed to, the West Virginia, to-day about 65 per cent. complete, will never be finished and never plow the seas bearing the Stars and Stripes.

The West Virginia is one of the same class and power as the Maryland, soon to be commissioned. Somewhere among Government stores are eight sixteen-inch rifles made especially to fit her four gun pits. She would be able, when completed, to steam at almost a twenty-three knot speed; she is built so as to be almost invulnerable to torpedo attack; she carries a bulk of the hardest armor ever rolled, so thick that a man might walk on its upper edge where it protrudes beyond the skin of the ship well about the waterline. No device that American genius or war experience has combined to produce has been omitted from the ship's fighting equipment.

OPEN SESSIONS PROVES SUCCESS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Only two sessions so far and yet they prove the incalculable benefit of public open discussion.

Suppose Secretary Hughes had made his proposal at a secret council and then waited for a confidential reply from other nations—how different the situation would be! The delegates would be involved in a mass of details and in a confusion of pleas, replies, rejoinders and sub-rejoinders. As it is the United States took the world into its confidence and the world gave an affirmative answer that jarred secret diplomacy off its throne.

Mr. Balfour set forth Great Britain's answer as to her need of a navy and it is well that the world should know that view. Never before has Great Britain been able to lay her arguments before so many people at one time.

If war is to continue, a large navy is necessary to the very existence of the British Empire. The word "large" is a relative term. When all navies were small, a little navy might be large enough for Great Britain, but when several nations build big navies the biggest navy of all becomes an unbearable burden and Great Britain may well desire the substitution of a different policy.

JAPAN'S OPPORTUNITY.

The open meeting also gave Japan a chance to deny before the world the false accusations that have been made against her by those unfriendly. When has Japan ever been able to lay her case before so many people as she did? To obtain such a hearing is worth to her all the expenditures which her attendance may incur. She answers her accusers with the assertion that she has never insisted upon a navy equal to Great Britain or the United States, that she has never contemplated a navy for defensive purposes and that she heartily concurs in the proposal that sweeping reductions be made.

Here, in a forum that speaks to the world, these questions are going to be thought out and fought out. It is impossible that the results shall be otherwise than good. Frankness triumphed in the beginning and will gather momentum as the conference progresses. The benefits already assured compel the conviction that a permanent tribunal—one that can be convened at any time for the consideration of any international problems—is the supreme need of the world. Even on questions which cannot be submitted to arbitration and where the conclusions must rest upon their merits rather than upon any binding agreement, publicity will create a public opinion that will in the end control. Reason will thus be substituted for force and a new spirit will regulate international relations.

THAT LETTER FROM CHARLESTON

Editor Evening Advocate.

Dear Sir,—Kindly permit me space in your widely circulated paper in connection with an article written in the Daily News, dated November 5th, written at Charleston, signed Cecil Quinton. First the article is misleading. No such thing happened. William Harris, the man whom he refers to lost his store, stage and wharf also two small fishing boats, which Quinton classes a vessel. He says there was nothing on board of any value. Then again he says it is believed that the vessel was laden with telephone outfit for Southern Bay. Perhaps Quinton is trying to pull the wool over the Editor Daily News and its readers. Cecil might have said the vessel was laden with spikes as he is well known around Southern Bay and Charleston as Spike Quinton. I wonder was he in the mob that pulled down the telephone poles leading from Princeton to Southern Bay? He further states the vessel is a total loss and will be sold at public auction. That's a splendid chance to buy spars. He also says the wreck commissioner was sick; this is another of his ill ventilated paragraphs. There is no such man

But there is a Road Commissioner, and I don't think he was notified when the flour and other goods came to the station last spring for distribution by that Commissioner. But Quinton is very eager to report wreckage and insult a man who is keeping his home fire burning without the aid of Cecil Quinton.

News From Leading Tickles West

Editor Evening Advocate.

Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in your paper for these few items. On Oct. 22nd our schoolteacher, Mr. Geo. E. Squire left us for his home after being with us for four months. We all liked Mr. Squires and were very sorry but we trust he has reached home safely, and will have a prosperous winter.

Also on Oct 25th, one of our Union brothers, Elijah Andrew Marsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Marsh, led to the altar, Bessie Bonnie Ward, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ward, also, widow of Samuel Ward, who died a long while ago. They being joined together by Rev. F. L. Little, at Row-sell's Island. The bride was dressed in blue seersucker, with hat and veil. The best man was Mr. Mark Forsey, cousin of the groom, and the matron of honour being Mrs. Lucy Marsh, cousin of the bride. The brides boys were Solomon Rowsell, friend of both, Obadiah Marsh and Wesley Rowsell, both cousins of the groom. The bridesmaids were Victoria Jane Marsh, sister of the groom, Prudence Jane Rowsell, friend of both, Blanche Forsey, cousin of the bride. A very enjoyable time was kept up till 12 o'clock when as the night was so stormy, it had to close as there were so many friends

On Oct. 29th, a wonderful hurricane of wind and rain visited here, the like was never seen here before, very high winds and heavy sea. Much damage was done. Mr. James Marsh lost his

PUBLIC NOTICE.

Whereas it has been brought to the notice of the City Council that several of our public coves are unduly blocked by small schooners being permanently moored in them for the winter months, thereby causing much expense and delay in clearing the snow from Water Street, the Mayor respectfully asks that all persons responsible for this, will please co-operate with the Council in its efforts to keep the coves at least partly clear.

EX-SERVICE MEN MEET PRIME MINISTER

A deputation of ex-service men met the Prime Minister, Sir R. A. Squire, at his office at 3 p.m. yesterday and discussed with him the unemployment problem as it affected returned soldiers and sailors. Facts and figures were laid before Sir Richard and helpful suggestions for the handling of the matter put forward. The Prime Minister assured the deputation that everything possible for a satisfactory elucidation of the problem would be done and a meeting of the Executive Government will be called, at which the ex-service men will be represented to further discuss the matter.

The Prime Minister also intimated that he could find immediate employment for as many genuine woodsmen as will offer in connection with the Government's pit prop scheme. This scheme, however, did not appeal to the deputation.

Last night a meeting was held at the T. A. Armoury at which were present some 200 ex-service men to whom the deputation gave a report of their interview with the Prime Minister.

DIGBY FROM LIVERPOOL

The S. S. Digby, Capt. Chambers, D.S.C., arrived at 10.30 this morning from Liverpool. She had fine weather the first three days and then encountered head winds and heavy head seas which greatly retarded her progress. She left Liverpool on the 23rd of November with 900 tons of cargo, of which 436 tons is consigned to St. John's, and 26 passengers, 17 landing at this port, 8 for Halifax and 3 for Boston. The following are the passengers for here: Miss G. Edens, Capt. E. Faulk, Mr. J. D. Gilmour, A. J. Harvey, Mr. C. H. Tranfield, Mr. W. H. Wellington, Mr. A. G. White, Mr. A. Williams, Mrs. A. Williams, Capt. J. Baker, E. McLeod and 4 seamen.

VESSEL BLOWN UP

No further particulars of the loss of the three mast auxiliary schooner "June" reported yesterday as having been lost in the Mediterranean, have been received by Messrs. Baine Johnston and Co., her owners. As far as can be ascertained the vessel's loss was the result of an explosion on board while she was on her way to Leghorn from Malaga at which latter port she arrived from Labrador with a fish cargo, making the run in 17 days.

The June was the largest sailing vessel out of this port, being 485 tons gross and 356 tons nett. She was built in Oregon in 1917 and was commanded by Capt. S. Marshall. It is presumed that her crew landed safely.

Vanity and Spectacles

"The wearing of glasses is one of the best preservers of a youthful appearance. This is because prolonged eyestrain causes wrinkles to appear prematurely and gives the countenance a strained, anxious, tired, drawn, cross look, which is very characteristic and far more to be avoided, from the point of view of appearance, than the slight disfigurement of glasses. Indeed, so far from being unbecoming, there are some types of face to which glasses just add the finishing touch."
